Project

BACKFIT

This projects is web scraping in the context of background verification involves designing a system that can automatically extract relevant information from various sources for the purpose of verifying an individual's background. Web scraping can be effectively implemented using the Python libraries Beautiful Soup and Selenium, which offer complementary capabilities for parsing HTML and interacting with websites, respectively. Beautiful Soup is a Python library that is commonly used for web scraping purposes. It provides a convenient way to extract information from HTML and XML documents by parsing the content and navigating the parse tree. Beautiful Soup is widely used for extracting data from websites, performing web scraping, and automating tasks that involve manipulating HTML/XML content. Python Selenium is a powerful and widely used library for automating web browser interactions. It allows you to programmatically control a web browser, typically for tasks such as web scraping and performing repetitive actions on websites.
